

PRIMARY WATER SCHOOL OF THE YEAR

Esker National School

County Galway

Esker National School is a small school in County Galway with dedicated students and staff. Students from Esker work closely with their community, they regularly attend litter picking sessions with their local Athenry Tidy Towns. They took part in the Big Beach Clean-Up and the National Spring Clean, collected large volume of rubbish and raised awareness through social media of their work.

Their link to their community is strong and they have secure sponsorship of a water harvesting system for their school.

To celebrate Climate Action Week the students had a Disco Bike Cycle, at Halloween they organised a swap shop to promote sustainability.

The students worked on STEM projects based on water conservation and pollution, a local senior engineer visited the school to view their projects.
